WILLESDEN CASE COMES MONDAY

The hearing in connection with the case of the United States against Jas. P. Flindt, master of the immigrant steamer Willesden, Clive Davies and W. H. Fairl, has been set for 9:30 o'clock Monday morning next.

The defendant this morning filed a motion staying a trial by jury. This is the case in which the Federal authorities claim no conflict over the matter of the bond put up by the Willesden not being sufficient to meet the expenses. The master was receiving some compensation this morning, but it was understood that no final step will be taken until Monday, when it is brought before court.

Matsuura, a Japanese, charged with piracy on a Federal reservation will come to trial immediately following the Willesden case.

Van Nue, a Chinaman, who has been near Thursday next, has decided that he can do better without an attorney and refuses to have one look after him.

SHELL FROM PRESIDIO GUN BARELY MISSES U. S. SHIP

The crew of the army gun plow General Barrett are busy congratulating themselves over their escape in the subscriber's practice yesterday morning, says the S. F. Examiner. Through a peculiar twist of the tide the boat and crew came within a fraction of finding a watery grave at the entrance to the Golden Gate, when they narrowly were missed by a shot from Battery Lancaster.

It is the duty of the General Barrett to fire the targets back and forth across the outer harbor for the gun on the shore battery to fire at. The targets usually are separated from the gun by about one hundred and 600 yards. Yesterday the General Barrett had drawn the target across the channel and Battery Lancaster had fired its shot. The men of Battery Lancaster were awaiting their order to fire.

Just as the order came the General Barrett found itself caught in a tide, so the target and boat were separated by only a few yards. The kick of the gun on shore came just as the crew discovered their position. The next moment the shell from the gun passed over the stern of the boat, clearing it by only a couple of feet.

The crew began to jump frantically toward the shore to stop firing until they could extricate themselves from their perilous position, and it was with great deal of relief that the men discovered the line between the boat and target.

PRIEST CONDEMNED TO A LIVING DEATH

Father Depuy, Decorated For Bravery in Madagascar Campaign, Is a Leper.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Apr. 6.—The Rev. Adolphe Depuy, a Catholic missionary on the Island of Madagascar, and a notable in the French Legion of Honor, has been stricken with leprosy.

The news of the tragedy has clouded the last years of the aged Jesuit priest, whose name is intimately connected with the history of the conquest of Madagascar by France.

Monsignor, a Japanese, charged with piracy on a Federal reservation will come to trial immediately following the Willesden case.

Forced to quit Tasmania, where he was living at the time his wife died, Father Depuy went to Australia. Made of iron, he chaplain during the Malaya campaign, he assisted throughout the fighting. Although confined with tubercular, while attending to his duty to carry out the campaign he learned. For his bravery and humane work he was decorated with the cross of the war by the French government with the Cross of the Legion of Honor.

The disease to which he has fallen is a virulent one contracted during the Japanese work among the natives to whom he returned after the war. Like Father Depuy of Madagaskar, Father Depuy escaped the volcano that buried him in a hydraulic suit with a bullet hole.

He is now 70 years old, having been a deacon for 50 years, and his enforced illness forced his solution of the separation from his fellow priests and the priesthood, caused by being literally devoured by the scurvy, made him a leper.

The letter received by Monsignor Dunn from Father Depuy, superior describes him as "a man of infinite patience and wisdom" who dedicated himself to the work of nursing his fellow lepers. His home now is a small hut at Flamingo, where the leper colony is located.

RICH LANDOWNERS OF TASMANIA

There are in Tasmania 60 landed estates having average values of over $60,000; 22 estates averaging $22,000 to $60,000; and 186 estates averaging $2,000 to $10,000. These are unimproved estates. A complete list of these estates, their location and owners was recently compiled for competing taxation. A copy of same which may be obtained from the Bureau of Manufactures would prove useful to American manufacturers of agricultural implements, motor cars, windmills, pumps, fencing wire and other articles used by the wealthier landowners of Australia.
